Community School Fair Will Be Held April 19 and 20

SCHOOL ELECTION IS BEING HELD TODAY

AT GRAMMAR SCHOOL FROM 1 TILL 6 O'CLOCK.

NO CONTEST IS EVIDENT

City Election One Week From Next Monday; Little Is Being Said By Voters; Registration Is 592.

The annual school election is in progress this afternoon at the Grammar school building, and there is no evidence of any contest whatever, as the only names on the ballots are those of Dr. S. G. Huff and W. T. Newland for the High school and Mrs. Newland for the Grammar school board, all standing for re-election.

The city election will be held one week from next Monday, and there are 592 qualified voters on the list.

There will be approximately 500 votes cast, the chances being that the total will not vary more than 25 either way from this number.

There has seldom been a time when it was as difficult to forecast the result of an election as the one that will be held April 8th, as voters are saying very little, and few can be found who will risk a prognostication on the outcome.

While there are eight candidates on the ticket for the office of city trustees, they are divided into two groups, and makes a somewhat different contest than if they were all in one field.

There is one trustee to be elected for two years, and Trustee Joseph Vavra and L. M. Lindsley are the only ones in the race for this short term job.

Mr. Vavra is one of the most public-spirited men in Huntington Beach, and has invested considerable money here in an effort to assist in the upbuilding of the city. He takes an active interest in all civic affairs, and his name is to be found on public subscription lists, and he has considerable executive ability. A remarkable characteristic about Mr. Vavra is that he seldom, if ever, utters an unkind word about anybody, which indicates an unusually kind disposition and high character.

Mr. Lindsley is a retired farmer and a man of good judgment and undoubted integrity, and promises a conservative administration.

There are two trustees to be elected for terms of four years, and there are six candidates contesting for these two seats at the municipal table: Richard Drew, E. E. French, Trustee D. W. Huston, W. J. Williams, L. T. Young and Lewis Bingle.

If the vote was divided equally between these men, they would poll 83 votes each; but there will be a wide margin separating the high and low men on the tally sheets.

Mr. French has probably given more liberally of his time for civic work than any other candidate whose name will appear on the ballot for any office. He is president of the Chamber of Commerce, and more good work has been done since he took charge than for several years prior to that time. Mr. French is also a delegate to the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county.

Mr. Drew has been manager of the Huntington Beach Warehouse Co. for seven years, and is a young man of acknowledged good business acumen and a character above reproach.

Trustee Huston was elected four years ago, and has filled the office with credit, and is opposed to the office of city manager.

Mr. Williams is a retired stockman, and was a cowboy on the ranges of Montana and Wyoming a quarter of a century ago, and he and Mrs. Williams came to Huntington Beach about four years ago.

Mr. Young has been a resident of Huntington Beach for nearly four years and is a building contractor. He was a candidate for the same office two years ago.

Mr. Bingle has also been a resident of Huntington Beach for about four years, and conducts the confectionery stand next to the Basket grocery on Main street.

There is an interesting triangular contest on for the office of city treasurer, with a salary of $25 per month. C. E. Lavering, cashier of the First National Bank, has held the office for the past two years, and is a good accountant and kept his records in splendid condition.

Judge W. D. Seely has been in the real estate and insurance business since Huntington Beach was placed on the map. He has held the office of justice of the peace and city trustee, having been president of the board.

The third man is I. C. Warner, of the firm of Warner & Catching, who is also an old-timer here. He is popular with the working people.

For the office of city clerk Chas. R. Nutt and J. B. Irwin are the contestants. Mr. Nutt has held the office for the past four years and is universally acknowledged as an efficient officer. Mr. Irwin has not held public office in California, but was chief deputy county clerk for eleven years in Illinois prior to moving to Huntington Beach.

As the candidates are all men of good character, the News will not endorse any of them, but ask the voters to select the ones which they conscientiously believe will serve the very best interests of the city.

The News has but one ax to grind in this matter, and that is the one of progress, and every citizen who has an interest in the city should assist in the grinding of this particular implement.

There will be some big developments in Newport Beach in the near future, and the taxpayer who votes for candidates because they are opposed to the extension of Ocean avenue from First street to the east city limits, to connect with the section of coast boulevard between this city and Newport Beach, will be unconsciously voting against their own interests, as good transportation facilities will allow a large number of men that are employed in the ship yards there to reside in Huntington Beach, and rents will be considerably higher than at the present time, in the event that this condition prevails. The chances are that there will not be anything like enough houses here to accommodate the demand if the transportation facilities are satisfactory, and this boulevard is a vital necessity under the circumstances.

Two years ago the registration was 723, and four years ago 488. Therefore, it is 131 less than two years ago, but 104 more than in 1914. In 1914 there were 380 votes cast and in 1916, 616.

The citizen who makes the statement that any particular candidate is being backed by special interests with the hope of aiding in his defeat, is doing himself an injustice, because he is uttering something entirely without foundation, as the candidates are honorable men and are not seeking office with the hope of rewarding any faction or group of men.

EASTER SUNRISE RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

WILL BE HELD ON THE OUTER TEE OF THE PIER.

Arrangements have been made to hold religious services on the outer tee of the pier at sunrise Easter morning, and the following "write-up" of the event is by Rev. C. Carey Willets, pastor of the Baptist church:

No more glorious vision of a California sunrise can be obtained than that which is seen from the extreme end of the famous Huntington Beach pier on a clear morning. With beautiful Catalina almost within speaking distance behind, and every prominent mountain of the southland standing at attention and ready to salute the glorifying orb of day in the foreground; with old Sol climbing over the eastern hills and flinging his smile over the laughing waves; with the snowy-headed mountains, and the blue sky kissing the blue sea, the holy strains of creation's morning hymn vibrate in the soul

"Forever singing as they shine,
The hand that made us is divine."

This is the place selected for our Community Sunrise Service on Easter morning. The Huntington Beach band will play a number of suitable selections. There will be a chorus choir under the direction of R. C. Turner, an Easter reading, and special patriotic prayers for the safety of our soldiers and sailors who are on the sea.

MUST SET YOUR CLOCK AHEAD NEXT SUNDAY

RELIGIOUS SERVICES AT SUNRISE.

ON OUTER TEE OF THE PIER

Everybody Invited To Be Present; Big Attendance Is Anticipated; Sun Will Rise at 5:50, Old Time.

It will be necessary for everybody to follow the new daylight-saving law enacted by Congress, and set their timepieces ahead one hour, Sunday morning, March 31st, whether they desire to do so or not, as the trains will all change to comply with the law, and those who do not make the change will find themselves one hour behind the regular schedule of transacting the day's business.

However, few will notice the change after the first day, as those who have been accustomed to arising at 6 o'clock and retiring at 10 will continue to do so, as in the past.

The change is to take place at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, but as few citizens of Huntington Beach will be up at that hour, most of them will no doubt wait until Sunday morning to turn the hands of clocks and watches ahead one hour. To make the change at 2 o'clock is for the convenience of the railroad companies, as there are fewer trains in operation at that time than any other in the day.

It is estimated that there will be considerable daylight saved under the new law, which can be utilized in war gardens.

Those who attend the sunrise religious services on the outer tee of the pier will have to be there a little before 6 o'clock, old time, as the sun will rise about ten minutes before that time Easter morning.

The band will be present, and a good program has been arranged, under the direction of R. C. Turner.

WINTERSBURG MAN BUYS HIS GARAGE BUILDING.

L. L. LETSON IS MAKING A SUCCESS.

An indication of the success being made by L. L. Letson, proprietor of the Wintersburg Garage, is the purchase of the building in which his garage is located.

Mr. Letson was operating in the building under a lease from J. W. Zin of Elsinore, owner of the property, which expired April 1st, next Monday, and he decided to buy instead of renewing the lease.

January first Mr. Letson placed his business on a cash basis, and his success since that time accounts for his deciding to purchase the building and become a fixture in Wintersburg. He is also enjoying a fine trade in Racine tires and Howe tubes, for which he is the exclusive agent in this territory.

Mr. Letson desires to thank those who have patronized him in the past and asks for a continuance of their favors.

J. M. HUDSON SOLE OWNER OF CITY GARAGE.

NO ONE ELSE HAS ANYTHING TO DO WITH IT.

A typographical error in the advertisement of the City Garage, last week, showed that J. M. Hudson was owner of the City Garage and another was manager of that well-known place of business on Fifth street.

This is a regrettable mistake, as Mr. Hudson has had entire charge of the garage since purchasing it from Mrs. Wright, and the business has grown under his management.

WILL MAKE ICE CREAM.

J. H. Owen is again on deck at the ice plant, coming down from Los Angeles, Monday, to take charge of the ice cream department, where he was employed prior to the change in the ownership of the plant. Mrs. Owen will also come to Huntington Beach as soon as arrangements can be made.

A SPECIAL MATINEE FREE FOR EVERYBODY

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON AT PRINCESS THEATRE.

EDISON, THE BENEFACTOR

Show Will Open at Four O'clock; Shows Thos. A. Edison from His Birthplace to Greatest Inventor of His Time.

There will be a special matinee at the Princess next Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock, entirely free to everybody.

The subject of the film to be shown will be Thomas A. Edison, the greatest electrical inventor that has ever appeared on this planet. The lights we enjoy and the great dynamos hundreds of miles away that furnish power for the trolley cars were invented by this wonderful genius.

The film shows his birthplace in Milan, Ohio, and at the age of 14 he had a laboratory in the basement of his home. He became a telegraph operator, which led his experiments in the vast unexplored field of electricity.

Come early and enjoy the show as "Pop's" guest.

RED CROSS

The amount received from the articles sold, which were demonstrated last week by Mr. and Mrs. Wyman, netted the Red Cross $11.10.

Work at headquarters is progressing, but more basters and machine sewers are wanted. Do not forget odd white buttons can be used.

Mesdames Edwards and Gallienne have charge of the work room on Tuesday, Mrs. Anderson on Wednesday, Mrs. Moore on Thursday, and Mesdames Rigdon and McCreery on Friday. Come in. Every little bit helps.

Chairman.

We'll Fix It

If your watch or clock is out of the running, bring it to us. We'll fix it and give it back to you in nearly as good a condition as when it was new.

Watch and clock repairing is one of our hobbies. We are really as particular about having you satisfied with a repair job as we are having you satisfied with the goods you buy from us.

To get the greatest amount of satisfaction out of either a watch or clock, it must be inspected and oiled every year or two—once a year is better.

You wouldn't think of buying a new automobile and then trying to run it without oil; neither should you think of letting your watch or clock run year in and year out without a drop of oil. Better let us look after it for you.

Society and Personal

Woman's Club.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Club was held in the clubhouse, Tuesday afternoon, when a splendid program was rendered, as follows: "Influence of Music in the Home," Mrs. W. S. Thomson; study of the opera, "Il Trovotore," Mrs. W. T. Newland, Jr.; piano duet, Mrs. E. A. Maher and Mrs. H. T. Dunning; violin solo, Mrs. Clinton Newland. Mrs. Newland graciously responded to a generous encore, and was accompanied by Miss Alice Clough. Raymond Grey asked those present to assist in the sale of Smileage books, and after some discussion it was decided to give some kind of entertainment and try and raise sufficient money to send each man in the service from this vicinity one of the books of theatre tickets, and President Mrs. C. A. Johnson appointed the following committee to take charge of the matter: Mrs. Dunning, Mrs. Maher, Mrs. Alex. P. Nelson, Mrs. T. B. Talbert, Mrs. Chas. H. Endicott, Miss Mary A. Turner and Mrs. S. A. Moore. A letter was read from the General Federation of Woman's Clubs, asking for aid toward the construction of homes to provide furloughs for the American soldiers in France, but no definite action was taken. The meeting was opened by singing the first verse of the "Star Spangled Banner." The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. W. E. Gerhart, president; Mrs. F. E. Wilson, vice-president; Mrs. H. T. Dunning, secretary; Mrs. Louis A. Copeland, treasurer; Mrs. Reuben Catching, trustee.

Armitage of Sunset Beach, who acted as guide. A basket lunch was enjoyed at noon, coffee, sugar and cream being furnished free. The ladies returned with a very favorable impression of the work being done, and being prepared to support a bond issue should an election be called for that purpose. As near as could be ascertained, the following composed the party: Mrs. C. A. Johnson, Mrs. H. L. Heffner, Mrs. T. B. Talbert, Mrs. C. H. Thatcher, Mrs. F. H. Rigdon, Mrs. W. M. Adair, Mrs. H. V. Anderson, Mrs. S. A. Moore, Mrs. F. E. Wilson, Mrs. Alexander Osterhaus, Mrs. William Hedges, Mrs. L. M. Lindsley, Mrs. Jas. T. Sunday School Banquet.

The chief society event of the past week was the banquet given by the Sunday school of the Christian church, in the Woman's clubhouse, Friday evening of last week. The banquet was prepared and served by the girls of the school as the result of a membership contest between the boys and girls of the school, the boys being the winners. About 100 new members were added to the various classes of the school by the vigorous campaign waged by the two delegations. About 150 persons enjoyed the dinner at tables nicely decorated with flowers and ferns. Prayer was offered by Boyden G. Hall, and Harold H. Campbell acted as toastmaster. The address of welcome on behalf of the ladies was delivered by Andrew L. Worthy, and the response for the men by Clyde Wardman. W. A. Double talked on the increased attendance and collections, and Pyrl W. Elliott gave a booster talk. The program consisted of a vocal solo by Will Gallienne; vocal duets by Miss Gladyse Bollon and Miss Irene Engle, and Mr. Gallienne and Lawrence E. Worthy, accompanied by Mrs. Lawrence Worthy.

Double responded on behalf of the delegation, thanking the donors for the appropriate gifts. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Young, Mrs. May S. Jackson, Mrs. A. E. Leatherman and Mrs. Double. What Will the Harvest Bring?

On Most Crops One

CAN ONLY GUESS

But the Growers of

of a HIGH MINIMUM price under our present contract, which bases the price for beets on the price received for sugar, BUT WITH A GUARANTEE that it will be not less than though the sugar brings 7½¢ per pound.

Under this guarantee the price for 18 per cent beets (which is less than the average test of all beets delivered to our factory) will not be less than $9.00 per ton, and will be higher if sugar brings more than the price named above. THE MINIMUM RETURNS PER ACRE for 18 per cent beets will be as follows on acreage producing from ten to twenty tons:

Yield Per Acre	Minimum Returns for 1918	Increase Per Acre Over Minimum Provided in Previous Contracts
10 tons	$ 90.00	$36.00
11 "	99.00	39.60
12 "	108.00	43.20
13 "	117.00	46.80
14 "	126.00	50.40
15 "	135.00	54.00
16 "	144.00	57.60
17 "	153.00	61.20
18 "	162.00	64.80
19 "	171.00	68.40
20 "	180.00	72.00

The increase is 66⅔%

Copious rains have put fields in ideal condition for preparing seed beds, and land reasonably suitable and properly farmed should yield a highly profitable beet crop.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NOTES

(By the School.)

The following pupils won prizes for writing the best essays on "Why I Should Trade In My Hofe Town" or kindred subjects: Eighth grade—Bennie Page, first; Pauline Manning, second. Seventh grade—Bernice Ellis, first; Glen Turner, second. Sixth grade—Carmac Baker, first; Edna Hearn, second. Fifth grade—Irene Criley, first; Forest Alice Du Buis, second. Fourth grade—Rose Bushard, first; Eva Hawes, second. Third grade—Effie Howe, first; Hazel Brown, second. This contest was for the 10 schools of this community, but it seemed as though they thought of it only as a town affair. After the Community School Fair, it is hoped that the spirit will prevail in all 10 schools, for the community spirit should reach out. The first prizes were $1.00 worth of Thrift Stamps and the second prizes were 50c each in Thrift Stamps.

There has been a great deal of discussion in regard to making the Community School Fair contest fair for all schools, whether they are large or small. Tell us, should the contest be this school against all others combined; should the events be divided into three classes: Seniors over 5 feet 2 inches in height, Intermediates over 4 feet 8 inches, and Juniors under 4 feet 8 inches; should pupils be divided into three classes with height and weight combined; should five places in each event be given; or what conditions should hold for a fair athletic meet?

There was great rejoicing among the pupils when they were shown a check of $25.00 from the Holly Sugar Corporation, made payable to our Junior Red Cross. At the teachers' meeting a vote of thanks was made to the Holly Sugar Corporation people.

The Boy Scouts expect to borrow the office part of the 5th grade grocery store in order to sell Thrift Stamps to pupils. The Scouts will get credit for what they sell and the school pupils will get credit for what they own. Go to it!

The girls are enthusiastically furnishing their rest room. A new blanket, couch spread, and pillow were bought for them. The girls, themselves, are decorating with pictures, etc.

The annual school edition of our local paper will be issued April 19th. Editorials and cuts should be turned into the office before the Spring vacation, which runs from March 29th to April 8th. Let the issue be more pictorial and less editorial. Let groups of small pictures show the school activities. May there be pictures of our kindergarten room, auditorium, sewing classes, manual training room, war gardens with pupils at work, etc. Perhaps the High school will be in on this. It is a community deal.

From 11 a. m. to 12 m. on April 19th, may our exercise exhibition be similar to a circus—first the marching and then the division into groups under different directors for some snappy and varied work. Remember the marching orders: Fall In; Count Off; Squads Right or Left; Forward March; Column Right, Left, or Oblique March; On Right Into Line, March; Take Your Distances, March; or perhaps Right, Left, or About Face.

UNLAWFUL TO WEAR ANY PART OF UNIFORM.

VIOLATORS SUBJECT TO FINE AND IMPRISONMENT.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir—

1. There have been many discussions and inquiries regarding the wearing of uniform or parts thereof by civilians. Below are some extracts from the laws governing that matter and it is requested that you give publicity to this in your columns.

2. Section 125 of the National Defense Act, approved by Congress June 3, 1916, reads in part as follows:

"Sec. 125. PROTECTION OF THE UNIFORM.—It shall be unlawful for any person not an officer or enlisted man of the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, to wear the duly prescribed uniform of the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or any distinctive part of such uniform, or a uniform any part of which is similar to a distinctive part of the duly prescribed uniform of the United States Army, Navy or Marine Corps.

"Any person who offends against the provisions of this section shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding $300, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

3. Any persons violating this law come under the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts.

Many people are wearing parts of regulation uniforms. Girls with regulation or very similar bluejacket jumpers and boys with regulation bluejacket white hats are very prominent by their numbers. These things are being more strictly investigated now, and all officers and men authorized to wear the uniforms are under orders to report all violation of this law. Many stores are also selling these goods and advising their customers that they can wear them. These stores are also violating this law, and reports are being made daily that will probably bring some unsuspecting offenders into the courts.

I am sending this letter to all editors with the plea that they put this information into their columns, both as a protection to those who are authorized to wear the uniforms and to those who are violating the law.

Respectfully,
CHAS. A. HARRIS,
Ensign, U. S. N., Retired,
Recruiting Officer.

HENRY BROOKS WRITES FROM CAMP GRANT, ILLINOIS.

Camp Grant, Ill., March 8, 1918.

Mr. Conrad,

Dear Sir:—I write on the average of ten letters per day for myself and various other parties, therefore I am not sure whether I told you of my transfer from Camp Lewis, Wash., to Camp Grant.

I am in charge in a larger capacity in this camp as to physical culture work, having been recently appointed by headquarters as assistant brigade athletic officer, which puts me in line for commission. I was appointed corporal of battalion physical culture work at Camp Lewis. I have charge of 1100 soldiers now—immediate control of 504 in this section of the camp. It is wonderful to see them all exercise at once, making a very pretty execution of discipline. I enclose the last write-up from the Seattle Star.

The battalion has had me doing map work on a large scale and making signs. The snow has stopped here, but it is very rainy. Being a P. C. instructor, naturally finds me in perfect health. With best regards,

HENRY BROOKS.

ALL FOOL'S DAY AT VENICE.

There are big preparations being made at Venice to appropriately celebrate All Fool's Day at Venice, beginning Saturday evening, March 30th at 7 o'clock, and continuing interruptedly until ?

The occasion has been designated as All Fool's Carnival, and will be along the same mirthful lines as those given at Venice on Hallowe'en and New Year's Eve, being a combination of funny features that are always popular with the public.

SNOWBALL DANCE AT SEAL BEACH NEXT MONTH.

The annual Snowball Dance will be given by the Seal Beach Chamber of Commerce April 2nd.

For the scene reproducing an eastern blizzard, 78,000 snowballs are being made by the women of Seal Beach. The air over the heads of the dancers will be filled with flying snow, but the arrangement is such that none of the snow will fall upon the dancers. When the powerful colored rays from a battery of the Seal Beach scintillators are thrown upon this snow scene the effect will be a marvel of beauty.

JOHN L. WYATT IS MOVING HIS STOCK.

WILL OPEN DEPARTMENT STORE IN ZAFERIA.

John L. Wyatt is moving his dry goods store to Zaferia, and it is expected the room will be cleared by tomorrow night.

Mr. Wyatt came to Huntington Beach from Long Beach and opened his store here in June, 1914, but found that the field was too limited for three dry goods stores.

The building in which the room is located being vacated by Mr. Wyatt is owned by Carl Olson, and he will move his stock of furniture into the store room in his fine new buildiing.

MERCHANTS WILL COMPLY WITH NEW TIME LAW.

There was a meeting of the merchants of Huntington Beach at the store of W. M. Adair, representative of the National Food Administration, Thursday night, and those present unanimously agreed to open and close their respective places of business, in compliance with the new daylight-saving law, recently enacted by the U. S. Congress.

Judge Louis A. Copeland, president of the First National Bank, also states that the bank will comply with the law beginning Monday morning. The bank will, of course, not open until 10 o'clock, as at present, but, reckoning from the time today, it would be 9 o'clock. There should be no thought about the old time until the last Sunday in October, when it will be reinstated.

CITY ATTORNEY NELSON WAS THE "FOUR-MINUTE" MAN.

City Attorney Alex. P. Nelson was the "Four-Minute Man" at the Princess theatre, Saturday evening. He said that some had said that this was a rich man's war, and showed how unreasonable the assertion was, as everybody was called upon to make sacrifices. The assertion that war was declared to protect the loans made to the Allies, Mr. Nelson said, was without foundation, as billions were being spent for every million loaned. He declared that this is every man's war.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

(By V. B. Brown, Principal.)

School Exhibit Days, April 19-20, will be here soon. We want to encourage all the Grammar schools within the circuit to help make these days successful ones. The government is making calls upon you for all that you can save and give and do to aid in the cause for which our boys are fighting.

You are gardening, helping the Red Cross, constructing work of various sorts, writing essays, carrying out projects that are worthy of public notice. You can inspire others by showing your work; you can advertise your school by bringing forward the results of your effort. The supporters of your school are entitled to this visual report.

The mind of the public is turned toward the schools because they are the preparatory grounds for men who are later to bear the nation's burdens. You should be proud of the results achieved. Your best is worthy of attention. But you shall have an opportunity to hear some of the best speakers. You will get new ideas of work being done by other schools and by other organizations. Several Visual Education Exhibits from the University will be presented. Some excellent lecturers with a message for the ranchers and others will be here An athletic contest will be held. Programs will be sent out later.

Let us all pull together to make our schools better, to inspire each other by getting acquainted and exchanging ideas.

MARGUERITE CLARK HERE NEXT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

"For France" Will Be Shown Saturday Night.

"FIGHTING TRAIL," EIGHTH EPISODE, SUNDAY NIGHT.

Saturday Night.

The feature at the Princess Saturday night will be a Greater Vitagraph Blue Ribbon picture, "For France," featuring Edward Earle and Betty Howe.

The scene is laid in gay Paris, prior to the German invasion, where Earle, as "Gerald Ackland," a dashing American, went to study aviation, and met "Martha Landeau." In order to be near Martha, Ackland masqueraded as an art student, and entered Monsieur Landeau's art school. He was a poor artist but a good lover, and they were to be married, but the war broke out and he enlisted in the aviation service and she became a Red Cross nurse.

The Ford Educational Weekly will be exceptionally good on this occasion, being "The Eyes of Our Allies."

A smashing, rough-house comedy completes the bill.

Sunday Night.

The feature Sunday night will be the eighth episode of the great "Fighting Trail," that has attracted much interest from the start.

Captured by a band of desperate outlaws, a young American mining engineer and his bride are doomed to death, or worse. There appears no chance of escape or rescue, as they lie securely bound in the cabin, while the bandits sleep about a fire outside. The girl, however, with a valuable necklace, bribes one of the outlaws when he gets up to fix the fire, to loosen their bonds and promises they will effect their own escape.

Stepping across the sleeping bandits, the pair reach their horses, but are scarcely in the saddle when the outlaws are roused. Then follows one of the wildest pursuits ever put on the screen.

"Jerry's Uncle's Namesake," a Sidney Drew comedy; a strong drama, "Dr. La Flour's Theory," and the Hearst-Pathe Weekly complete a bill that should satisfy the Princess patrons.

Wednesday Night.

Theatre-goers will have another opportunity Wednesday night of seeing Marguerite Clark, one of the charming little stars of filmland, in "The Valentine Girl," by the Famous Players.

The play deals with Marian Morgan, only daughter of a famous gambler. The only home Marian knows is that of Lucille Haines, as she has never seen either her father or her mother, her mother having died when Marian was born. When she is about twelve years old, Lucille marries and Mrs. Haines breaks up the home, informing Marian that she will be sent "home" to her father.

Although Morgan is much displeased at the prospect, he soon learns to love the little daughter he had never seen and strives to make up to her for all that she has missed. For a while they are very happy, although the child is lonely without companions of her own age, for none of the children of that fashionable neighborhood are allowed to play with the gambler's daughter.

This does not last long, however, as Joe Winder, one of Morgan's confederates whom he has sent out to commit a robbery, is caught by the police and forced to give information which leads the police to raid Morgan's home. Morgan is arrested but in the confusion little Marian wanders unnoticed out of the house. She chances upon a children's party in a nearby church and is warmly welcomed by the minister, the Rev. Bates, and invited to join the children. It is Valentine's day, and, in order to find his partner, each child is given half a valentine to match with the one who has the other half for partner. Marian's partner proves to be Robert Wentworth, son of a wealthy resident.

time at the party, but as it breaks up and the minister endeavors to establish her identity, she refuses to give her real name, steadfastly persisting that she wishes to be known merely as "Hope Valentine."

Why not have those pictures framed? See samples. Rigdon's Studio.

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL."

Episode 8—"The Strands of Doom."

It was over two months now since anything had been heard from Von Bleck or any of his men. Gwyn, Nan and Casey were standing one day, before the main shaft of the mine, watching the operations of the men. All about them things were busy. Ore cars were travelling into and out of the mine, cars of trains, laden with cinnabar, were moving along the narrow gauge railroad which had been built from the mine to the town, and which, incidentally, had been one of the big improvements which Gwyn had installed in Lost Mine.

"It seems," said Gwyn, as he and Casey stood outside the shaft, "that we finally scared Von Bleck away. He hasn't been heard from for nearly nine weeks, now, and it looks as though he'll stay among the missing. I have written to the financial powers in New York and they are mighty well pleased with the outlook. I believe that they will send someone out soon to see how we are getting along."

"Well," replied Casey, "if they do, the report ought to be a hum-dinger. We sure are progressing—and, don't forget, this is the only cinnabar mine that anyone knows of. And this would have been drained long ago if anybody except Don Carlos had known where to find it. Hi, there " he called suddenly to a man operating an ore-car which had just come from the entrance of the mine. "Stop your loafing and drive up here. We got no time for vacations between loads. Move up!"

The person to whom this curt order was addressed looked up from his car with a scowl. His unshaven face, covered with a ragged beard of several months' growth, was black with dust. And, though no one knew it, it was so intentionally. As the laborer proceeded to push his car toward the engine boss, in obedience of his command, he read hastily a note that was stretched on the ore before him. It was in such a position behind the pile of ore, that it could not be seen by the three who stood talking some distance away. He read:

"One-Lung:

"Keep yourself under cover. I need you where you are. Have learned that Gwyn and his wife found in the mine the deeds from the mine and the old land grant which gives them legal possession of the mine. This had been hidden in the mine by Don Carlos as a precaution should his house be robbed. It must be somewhere in Gwyn's cabin now. Get it! But don't let yourself be seen, as I may need you where you are later. Get the deeds and the grant now. You know what failure means!

"VON BLECK."

"One-Lung" tore the paper into tiny fragments when he had finished reading and put them into his pocket. He pushed the ore-car past Casey and the others, just in time to hear Gwyn say to Nan:

"I am terribly busy and want to finish up some things with Casey before it is too late. This is pay night. Do you suppose you could drive one of the machines to town and get the money from the bank? I'll send a man along with you, in case you don't get back until after dark."

"Of course, I can go," Nan answered. "I'll start now and get back as soon as I can."

Gwyn hailed one of the men who was nearby and ordered him to pull up one of the automobiles. "One-Lung," who had skulked along slowly so he could hear what was being said, hurried along with his car to the end of the rtack, and then disappeared behind some ore cars. Casey and Gwyn walked slowly toward the former's office and left Nan as she was preparing for her departure to town.

The four men who were seated about the table leaned closer to each other and spoke low tones. About them, standing in the rear room of Brown's Cafe, in the center of the town of Lost Mine, were a score or more of the roughest, hardest type of men that had ever been seen in the town. They talked among themselves, glancing frequently at the group about the table, waiting to hear the decision of the conference. And Von Bleck, Cut-Deep Rawls and Shoestring Drant were firing questions and statements in subdued voices, at another individual, a huge, fleshy person, weak of face, although not weak of body. This fourth man was known to Lost Mine as Sheriff Causley, whose main object in holding the position was to try to assure himself of re-election at every next election.

In a sudden spasm of duty, which struck him but infrequently, Causley had threatened Von Bleck and his band, but when the agent of the Central Powers gave him to understand that interference would result sadly for him both physically and politically, he had seen things in a different light.

"Everything is just ripe for our next move—and it'll be our biggest move, too," said Von Bleck. "We have to act quickly and sensibly. The main thing is to get the deeds. I'm pretty sure 'One-Lung' can take care of that; he might even have them already. Then an attack on the mine. We'll capture that, and with the deeds and Sheriff Causley's legal influence, we can hold it—and I can go back to New York and take things easily. You boys," he spoke to the others about the table, "will get your little pieces and they'll be enough to keep you from worrying for some time to come. Now go to it!"

"Wait here a while, boys," Rawls addressed the crowd of men in the room. "We'll be back to get you soon. Be shining up your guns, meanwhile." Then he, accompanied by Drant, Causley and few of the others left the room which was standing by the door.

Just as the auto filled with men shot away from the curb to go down the road, another car swung around the corner ahead. In it were two occupants, a man and a woman—Nan and the mine employee who had come with her. She caught a fleeting glance of the passing car and recognized the outlaws in it.

It was very evident that the unexpected presence of Rawls and the other of Von Bleck's men in Lost Mine alarmed Nan. She speeded up her motor, swung in by the bank, and came out again almost immediately with the money for the payroll. In another moment she was back in the car and driving at a dangerously rapid rate of speed toward the narrow gauge railroad which led back to the mine.

Some distance from the terminus of the railroad was a bridge, a wooden structure which ran several hundred feet above a river, whose waters rushed and whirled from the mountains. Before this was reached, when a train was coming from the town and going toward the mine, it was necessary to cross another bridge over a chasm. This latter structure was not straight, but made a turn, as a bow. Where the string of this bow would have been was a wire cable which also bridged the chasm, with the town end lower than that nearest the mine. By means of this, and a basket attached to a rope and pulley, ore had been sent across the chasm by means of the cable ferry before the bridge had been erected. Since then, however, it had not been in use, and the basket was rotten from exposure to the weather.

As Nan, in her engine, approached the chasm bridge, she noticed an automobile that was standing on a road near the trestle. It was Causley's car. She guessed in a moment that Rawls and his men had headed her off and were about to attack her. She did not know why; perhaps, she thought, for the money she had with her, perhaps to capture her and use her as a sort of modern hostage against Gwyn. A glance at the car and she threw the throttle wide. The engine dashed by the cut upon the bridge, just as Rawls, Drant, Causley and the others who had left Brown's in the sheriff's car, emerged from the bushes firing a fusilade of shots which they intended would stop Nan's flight. The man in the engine with her opened the coal box to speed the flames as they rode over the river and almost lost all the fire when many of the burning cinders fell to the bridge. As the engine swept along toward the mine, Nan looked back and could see the bridge over the river beginning to flame. The cinders had set fire to the dry logs that served as ties.

When Nan's engine drew up before the main shaft of the mine, she saw Gwyn and Casey talking excitedly before the superintendent's office. It was evident that something had gone wrong. The engine had scarcely stopped when Nan jumped from it and ran up to the two men.

"Von Bleck," she cried, breathlessly. "He and his gang are on the tracks. They tried to get me. There's something mighty troublesome in the wind and we'd better do something quick."

"Von Bleck!" Gwyn echoed, his excitement at even a higher pitch. "You bet he's making trouble. Nan, your deeds to the mine are gone. They've been stolen. I was just in the house, and the safe has been ransacked. Casey, we've got to head them off. We've got to get to town before they do with the deeds and land grant and keep them from filing them. Nan and I'll get on the engine again and ride back. You stay here, Casey, and guard the mine with your men. It's two to one they'll attack here and try to get possession."

Gwyn lost no time. Casey understood and shouted that he would do his part while Gwyn and Nan went to town. Gwyn ran to the engine, followed by Nan, threw open the throttle and sped along the rails in the direction of the town of Lost Mine. There was nothing to hinder them until they reached the bridge over the river. This they saw to their horror, as they rounded a curve and came within full view of it, was blazing in flames.

"There's nothing to do, Nan," Gwyn shouted above the din of the groaning wheels on the track. "We've got to take a chance. I'm going to drive over, full speed. Hold, now!"

THE GREAT LAURANT AND HIS COMPANY.

At a meeting in New York, attended by 300 magicians, Eugene Laurant was decorated with a beautiful gold medal and later at a meeting of Chicago magicians he received another gold medal. This illustrates the high standing of the great Laurant among those of his profession as well as the public. He has also appeared on several occasions before societies of scientific research.

Each year Laurant changes his program, introducing big new features, both tricks and illusions. This season he is to have three assistants. One of these will be Miss Helen Barnard, a cornetist of great skill.

A beautiful musical opening has been arranged wherein Miss Barnard will take the part of trumpeter. She will also brighten up the intermissions with her musical monologues.

Mr. Laurant will also have his own pianist; also a stage assistant to handle his many properties.

The production of the coming season will be equipped in the usual lavish manner that has characterized all his entertainments, the stage settings surpassing in beauty all previous efforts.

For more than seventeen years the Great Laurant has been a Chautauqua and Lyceum headliner. For more than ten years he has appeared under Redpath management, a fact which speaks for itself.

During the years which he has devoted to the Lyceum platform many offers from vaudeville and theatrical managers have been turned aside by Mr. Laurant because he believed in the Lyceum as a greater field in which to present his work.
